Revisionist History Study Group

Tuesday, Oct 15 7 – 8:30 pm

Free for members, $5 for non-members.

Our first book for discussion is Sacred Science: The King of Pharaonic Theocracy by R. A. Schwaller de Lubicz.

This is an excellent book to be able to discuss with others, as it will challenge even the most thoughtful reader with its extensive research on ancient thought.

This is a deep book by a well-educated, highly intelligent man who not only gives us the advantage of his many years studying the ancient Egyptians and Eastern Mystery Schools, but uses that platform as a way to examine our current thought patterns, to help us look at our own views of the way the world works.

Book Review

The Anatomy of Consciousness

By Robert Blackthorn

This is an innovative take on numerology combined with the use of astrological archetypes.... In the introduction the author describes his personal system of spiritual evolution through nine archetypes: This development, it is argued, reaches across lifetimes, dimensions and other worlds.

Blackthorne contends that this system for consciousness development was encoded in him from another lifetime \(more...\)

Black Smoke: Healing and Ayahuasca Shamanism in the Amazon

by Margaret De Wys

When composer Margaret De Wys learned she had cancer, she journeyed deep into the Amazon to work with Carlos, a charismatic Shuar shaman and master of medicina milenaria who guided her into a world of potent visionary plants, harrowing initiations, ritual purification, and miraculous healings, including the complete disappearance of her cancer.

The Turba Philosophorum or Assembly of the Sages

Arthur Edward Waite

from the back cover:

...among the most enigmatic of the alchemical texts due to the obscure language it employs in its exposition of the Arabic transmission of early Greek alchemical though.

The Traveler: Ken Page and the Fallen Angel

Daniel L Rogers and Mary Darragh Page

Throughout history men like King Arthur have searched for the Holy Grail, wondering if the legend could be true and the Holy Grail id only waiting for rediscovery. Ken Page unravels one of the oldest secrets know to humanity, along with Daniel, his son from a past life.

The Subtle Templates Of God - A Journey Along The Path

Mike O. Doney

A first-hand account of developing the skills of water witching, or dowsing, along with stories of how he used it to help himself, his friends and family. He lived in rural southwest Washington, Oregon and northern California, and it is interesting to watch him working with neighbors and coworkers as he learns to use his skills.

On the Internet

Last year, militant skeptics captured hundreds of entries on Wikipedia, including Rupert Sheldrake's biography page. An entire website is devoted to documenting this problem: Wikipedia problem

A new initiative called ISHAR (Integrative Studies Historical Archive and Repository) is building up a vast online library of reliable sources on mind/body research that will make it much harder for dogmatic skeptics to control for their own purposes. ISHAR has a fund-raising page on Indiegogo to support this is initiative, to counter the systematic bias on Wikipedia against consciousness research, integrative medicine and holistic science.

Conferences

Conferences are so much fun - it's really nice to talk to people who share your interests!

9th Annual Conference on Precession and Ancient Knowledge

October 17 – 19, Rancho Mirage, CA

Myths of ancestral people speak of a time when humans walked with the gods and lived in harmony with nature on a pristine Earth. They whisper of a long lost Golden Age, and a celestial driven cycle where the rise and fall of the ages flows like seasons. Most of all, they speak with reverence about the stars and our connection with the heavens.
